In recent years; new, luxury sites are being built on the empty lands around our school, where the city has been expanding. The lands that were used as agricultural areas in the past and where animals were grazed are rapidly being depleted. Although they try to introduce and sell the new structures to us with nice advertisements, these are the views seen when you go near the sites.
While the animals are trying to graze on the land in the garbage, the view of the sites is the animals grazing in the garbage.
I wish environmental regulations that would be positive for all of us were taken into consideration when intervening in living spaces and alternative living spaces for all living things were created.

"Nature interwined,
lake view,
Spacious houses within a complex…" The view behind the newly made luxury site advertisements.
Who has taken over whose living space?

Behind the long-distance landscapes of newly built estates is sprawl with landfills of garbage. Neighbors right next to the outer walls of luxury estates are in this view.

“Naturally fed sheep,
organically fed sheep,
Roaming chickens are tried to be sold with advertisements that include the sentences …”.
